Summary Count persons detained by year: The number of persons detained will not be equal to the sum of detainees in each year due to the same person being detained over more than one year. A person may initially be admitted in one year and detention continues over the next year; therefore would be counted twice. The total for each year in the details of the report will be higher than the total number of persons detained in the Overall Summary row, which is the actual number of different persons detained over all the selected years(without double counting).

**This data may differ from the detention data posted on the CBSA website (Quarterly updates). Due to operational needs, detention data is often recorded at later dates (i.e. timeframe for data entry varies from one day to two weeks) and therefore the figures posted online and this report may differ slightly in total count of detainees per year.

Detention Period Date - Year	Client Count

2015	45
2016	30
2017	21
2018	23
2019	29
Overall - Summary	171

This report includes the number of detainees for whom the refugee claim was granted at some point before or during their detention period. In most cases the positive refugee claim decisions would have been rendered on the last day of detention, then triggering the release from detention. In some cases, the refugee claim could have been granted years prior to the detention initiation and an event such as breaking the law, would have warranted an arrest & detention initiation after the fact. The year represents the year in which the persons were detained, not the date of the refugee claim granted decision.

The Detainees by Nationality report represents the client's current country of citizenship (as of the date the report is extracted). Our system does not keep history on client's citizenship at time of detention initiation. This is why you can see clients that are Canadian citizens. The CBSA does not have the authority to detain Canadian citizens. However if they were detained as foreign nationals and then granted Canadian citizenship after the detention period, they will appear as Canadian citizens in the report. For privacy reasons, all countries where there were less than 5 detainees have been grouped in the category "Other".
